

Giusti shifts key areas

The department of Student Services is undergoing a restructuring, under Chancellor Joseph J. Giusti's administration, which is streamlining the administrative area.

Directed by Dean of Students John Utzer, Student Services was part of a university-wide review of administrative structures. Due to this study, Giusti has authorized several realignments of administration.

Effective April 1, 1980, the areas of Admissions, Financial Aid and Registration will be under the jurisdiction of the vice-chancellor for academic affairs and dean of faculty, currently John S. The changes will affect these areas formerly reported to dean of students Utzer.

David Skelton will continue to direct both Student Administrative Services and Student Services. Both departments are part of Student Services. Skelton will assume new administrative duties in this department July 1, 1980.

The restructuring authorized by Giusti will allow coordination of academic services and programs to meet changing community needs, currently led by Giusti. The changes also stated the changes would enhance Student Services to concentrate on the quality of student life and related programs.

David Skelton, director of Student Developmental Services post, vacant since this summer, has also been reassigned to other Student Services duties. Salary funding formerly allocated for this post will be used to hire new employees, a general counselor, who will be hired to handle counseling duties.

Joseph Bassett, new dean of students at Northern Illinois University, will be reassigned to the Student Services post.

The posts of director of student activities and administrative assistant to the director of student activities have been phased out. Both posts were held by Jim Bollinger, who left for employment with Calvary Chapel. His post, the duties of director of student activities have been assumed by Mary Brent, with Union building deputy.

Anthropology professors Paul Provost (left) and Alan Sandstrom discuss their plans to visit the Dalai Lama in India as an undivided friend and advisor. (Photo by Sarah Wenzel)

Medley, final PR candidate

"I'm not committed to leaving my present post," said Jerry Megan Medley, who has been the public relations officer for the university since 1976.

Medley was the last of three candidates to be interviewed by the search and screen committee for the director of university relations post here. Richard Morrison of the University of Miami (FL), and Rose Akinsan of Fresno State were interviewed on Nov. 29 and Nov. 30 respectively.

The current director of university relations, Curt Vandugard, will retire at the end of the next semester.

Medley serves as director of university relations and alumni relations at Auburn University at Montgomery, where he has been a commuter campus with 5,000 students. At Auburn, Medley coordinates all in-house publications and helps prepare recruiting materials. He has his office has a strong rapport with the faculty.

The office produces a 12-30 page biweekly faculty and staff newsletter.

"I want to be known as a person simply concerned with communicating rapidly."

With a full-time staff of two, Medley also prepares a 7,000 circulation 12-page alumni newsletter. He has also been instrumental in forming the new alumni association there.

With external university relations.

Medley said, he tries to use the electronic media as much as possible, although AUM is not fortunate enough to have a radio station like IPFW. He concentrates on buying time with the largest television station in their area, and also buys radio spots.

All four television stations in the AUM area have talk shows, and Medley stated he tries to get faculty and staff members with something to say on one of these shows frequently.

Buddha beckons to Sandstrom, Provost

By KARL LAYLA SMITH

The Dalai Lama, who is believed to be the reincarnation of Buddha, has invited IPFW anthropology professors Alan Sandstrom and Paul Provost to Carmel, Ind., his city of exile.

In 1959 the Communist Chinese began moving troops into eastern Tibet. Provost explained that the Chinese reportedly told the Tibetan people that they were not trying to take over the country where they actually were.

Chutien Piche, the brother of the Dalai Lama and currently a professor at I.U. Bloomington, discovered the true intentions of the Red Chinese the hard way.

During a change of the monastery for the eastern section of Tibet at the time of the Red takeover.

When he realized what the Chinese were attempting, he tried to go to the Dalai Lama, but he was not allowed to enter Tibet. He later told them that he had been told to leave, but he was not allowed to leave.

He then went to the Dalai Lama and gave him a letter of introduction. The letter was signed by the Dalai Lama's brother, the Buddha.

Norba agreed, only to escape. He traveled to Tibet where he met the Dalai Lama's mother, the largest in the world, is located and visited his brother of the Chinese girl instead of poisoning him.

The Dalai Lama decided to flee the country to India in 1959. He decided, did not have to walk to nearby India. He was carried on a litter by 50 men. Since the Tibetans believe being near the Buddha is one way of obtaining good karma, most of the people in the area went with him.

These Tibetans and their society will be studied by Alan and Pamela Sandstrom, Paul Provost, and Peter Gold, curator of collections at I.U. Bloomington. Sandstrom will be the first to go to India, while Provost will go in May 1980, and Gold in March 1981.

Sandstrom's sabbatical leave begins at the end of the semester. Emily Whipple, Java ensemble director, will fill in for Sandstrom next semester. Whipple first came to this campus to assist Provost's class while he was on a sabbatical leave, and during the summer 1979.

Sandstrom will be conducting an ethnographic survey of Tibetan society during his stay in India, concentrating on Tibetan medicine. He also will be studying the role of the Tibetan scholar in India for the purpose of setting up a center of studies for other IPFW professors, for research purposes.

Pamela Sandstrom intends to work up a photo display and slide-tape presentation on Tibet for IPFW.

Provost said that they will be conducting preliminary studies in preparation for writing a grant proposal.

I.U. trustees approve Corso's stay

KOKOMO—Proposed talks of residence rate hikes and plans for a new recreation building in Bloomington were deferred for more study, and Leo Corso's contract was extended at the Indiana University Board of trustees meeting Nov. 29 in Kokomo.

An extension of I.U.'s head football coach Leo Corso's contract was approved until June 30, 1980, by the trustees. IU athletic director Ralph Duggan had recommended that Corso's present contract, which expires in 1981, be extended.

Proposed residence hall increases include a $50 hike in single room rates and an overall 10-15 percent hike. The trustees voted action on this proposal until further research into rising costs is completed. In separate committee meetings Nov. 29, board members said that certain information concerning rising costs was lacking, and recommended that further study was necessary before approval.

The trustees deferred board action and did not give the go-ahead to IU officials to proceed with plans for a new recreational building in Bloomington. Board members said more study on building costs and funding is required. The extended study could last as long as two months, according to some predictions.

The proposed building would include racquet tennis, martial arts, fencing and table tennis facilities, locker rooms, showers and saunas for men and women, and office space. The building location would be just north of the Student Health Center near Jordan Avenue and Law Lane.

The original plan for the new complex, drawn up by the Student Recreational Association, called for purely recreational use of facilities, except for a swimming pool that might be used by varsity teams. Funding for the complex would be generated from an $15 to $20 million bond issue.

This proposal, however, will be studied further before board action.

Bottomed out

EMS woes: rust never sleeps

By ROBERT RINBARSON

C 1979 Being involved in a serious accident is bad enough, but if you are involved in one in Fort Wayne, the accident itself may be only part of the problem.

Though the training and experience of Fort Wayne Emergency Medical Services personnel is excellent, you still may have a problem when you are involved in the wreck or in the hospital or in the emergency room.

Until 1973, Fort Wayne depended on medical personnel for emergency aid. Under Mayor Ivan Lebackoff, funding was provided from the federal government, and the Emergency Medical Service was established.

"We needed better service," Lebackoff explained recently. "It would free more police officers to perform direct police services and not act as ambulance drivers."

Randy Raypole, present director of EMS, added, "We have emergency medical technicians who have completed an 8-hour medical course. With our specially-equipped vans, we are able to provide more care to the patient at the scene and on the way to hospital than the old station wagons could."

Before, police were equipped to do little more than pick up the victim at the scene and provide rudimentary first aid until the ambulance arrived.

The city now has three EMS vans in active service. They are housed in a garage in the city. They are manned by a staff of 25 personnel.

"We need a lot more vehicles," Raypole said. "We need at least five more, but three backup vehicles," Raypole said. EMS handles approximately 1,100 to 1,400 calls each month, the director added.

Ed Coleman, an emergency medical technician (EMT) who first entered that field in Huntington, said, "Here the system and personnel are great." But he is quick to express dissatisfaction with the rolling catalog.

"The ambulances that the city provides are on the hill," he said. Upon observation, a Communicator reporter was able to see what was bugging Coleman. Most of the vehicles' roofs are stained with rust—some are rusted through.

"When it rains," said one medic, "you find water leaking in on you. I'm not sure if it's the roof or the windows. Many of the vans are in desperate need of body repair, because of accidents with motorists who fail to yield the right-of-way."

Riding along with one of the EMTs, the Communicator reporter found that ambulance number 6 would grind and rattle against the chassis each time it went over a bump. This occurred whether the van was going 20 mph or 40.

"You'd find even somewhat minor things going wrong. The best won't work in the winter time and the air conditioning won't work in the summer," said Coleman. "But that can be a serious matter in terms of comfort for a patient during the summer of the year."

Even the medical aren't safe. This was demonstrated recently when the brakes on a parked ambulance gave out and the van began rolling back onto the street and into oncoming traffic. An EMT had to jump into the vehicle to stop it and prevent a possible accident. Though a mishap was averted, the EMT received a broken arm for his troubles.

"We have no preventive maintenance," said Coleman. "When the program was young—through 1973 and 1974—there was no scheduled maintenance. We were serviced regularly. But then the little things began to build up, everything from water pumps to oil joints and shock absorbers needed replacing. The result was that the vehicles were in a state of wear and tear. Well, you can't afford to have an oxygen regulator go out during an emergency."

Clinics can be replaced, and they usually are, after a period of time. But in order to buy new ambulances, it would cost just under $30,000. That would be an outlay that is barely equivalent to the cost of the vehicles. The cost of the vehicles is about $20,000 and $40,000, he added.

The city administration recently purchased two new vehicles to replace the two decreed most hazardous, but four of the older vehicles still remain on the streets. None have less than 70,000 miles registered on their odometer, all are in need of refurbishing, and not one is over four years old as a model.

Adding to EMS's woes, Raypole observed, "Nobody knows exactly when we'll have funds to replace these four vehicles. We've been told to wait and hope federal funds will become available."

Raypole said the city and administration and city council have failed to provide EMS with adequate support.

"They have no idea what we're talking about," he said. "They don't know what we're talking about."

Asked how many courtesies have ridden in an ambulance to become acquainted with the system, he replied, "None."

Raypole said that Mayor Robert Armstrong, in fact, had ridden during the course of one shift, in an ambulance.

One of the questions frequently posed by medical is why can't EMS vehicles be replaced on the same basis as police vehicles?

A lieutenant at the Fort Wayne Police Department said the Communicator that police are replaced on a yearly or 50,000 mile basis.

Terry Condon, chairman of the city's

Board of Safety, said, "I really don't know why a procedure to replace ambulances is the same way we replace police cars was never considered."

Interestingly, statistics reveal that an EMS van makes more "right side accidents" than the average police car in a similar period of time. The results on the left side are more extensive in the one.

The condition of the vans is but one of the problems which plague the EMS. Earlier this year, the medical and police "ride-along" program was extended to the "ride-along" program, which was very similar to the "ride-along" program in police departments. At issue were working conditions.

(Continued on page 8)

Plan of Fort Wayne's Emergency Medical Service (EMS) ambulance waits to be called, silently driven by rust and worn out by heavy use since 1973. (Photo by Craig Baumgartner)

The metal floorboard on the EMS van shows the ravages of constant use and rust. The board appears ready to tear loose. (Photo by Craig Baumgartner)

Rust is not limited to lower areas and lower boards. Paint has peeled away around this cushion right on the van's seat and has begun working through the body. (Photo by Craig Baumgartner)

club reporter's corner

"Big O", other pros to appear

Former basketball star and Hall of Fame nominee Oscar "Big O" Robertson, and ex-Indiana Pacers curly Calhoun and Ken Buggert will be on campus Thursday Dec. 13 for a "Lifestyle Colloquium" presented by the Greater Fort Wayne Campus Ministry.

The colloquium will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Walb Union ballroom, with a $10 donation collected at the door. For further details, call the Rev. Joe Watkins at Campus Ministry in the Walb Union.

Sally Merrill award begun

The Department of Political Science announces the establishment of the "Sally Merrill Research Paper Award," for the best term paper in Political Science submitted by a student enrolled in a Political Science course. The $25 award is for the best paper written in fulfillment of course requirements in political science during the semester in which the award is made. One $25 award will be made during the fall and spring semesters of the 1979-80 academic year. Announcements of the award will be made by the end of January and May respectively.

The award has been named for professor Sally Merrill, who taught in the Political Science Department until the end of 1978. In recognition of her contributions to the Political Science Department and the students of IPFW.

Needy can food drive planned

The members of the Black Student Assembly are sponsoring a Needy Family Canned-Food Drive. The food drive will begin on Wednesday, Dec. 5 and end Dec. 21.

The box for the food drive will be located on the ground floor of Kettler Hall, and all donations will be given to a mother and her eight children.

The Black Student Assembly members sincerely hope the university faculty, staff, and student body will help this needy family have a Merry Christmas.

Club holds holiday meeting

Pearl Hearn, industrial relations specialist at Peter Eckrich and Sons, will be the special speaker at the Dec. 18 monthly meeting of the ASPA (American Society of Personnel Administrators). The meeting will begin at five p.m. in the Walb Union building, room 116. Special Christmas refreshments will be served.

Gay Activists slate meeting

The University Gay Activists (UGA) will meet Monday Dec. 18 at noon in Walb Union building, room 222.

Sexism at IPFW explored

The last seminar in the Women's Studies Series will explore the topic "Sexism at IPFW," Monday, Dec. 3 in Room 16 in the Walb Union building, noon to 1:30 p.m.

Laure Dunn, of the IPFW Department of Public and Environmental Affairs, Jane Policy, psychology student, Mary Leonard, business student, Kathleen Spandorf, of the IPFW Department of Philosophy, and Kathy Zoschka, student body president, will outline their perspectives on institutional sexism and how it affects women students, who make up 35 percent of the IPFW enrollment. The panel will facilitate discussion on these and related topics. All students, staff and interested people are invited to attend and participate.

Here's your chance!

It's not too late to enroll in W260, a writing seminar offered through the Communicator. You can earn credit for your work on our staff, fulfill upper-level writing requirements, or simply gain marketable writing skills.

The Communicator is also looking for photographers eager to be published, and business majors interested in earning money in their spare time, selling advertising for the Communicator.

See John Legas or Janice Thompson in suite 215, Walb Union building.

We're now taking orders for Christmas Custom Framing. Place your order now. No orders will be accepted after Dec. 15.

Art & Decorating Supplies for every student's needs.

Drawing tables, lamps and accessories available

Ask for your 10% student discount

411 Well St. 743-8841

campus calendar

The Trustees and Presidents of Indiana University and Purdue University cordially invite you and your guests to attend ceremonies marking the breaking of ground for the Classroom/Laboratory/Office Building Indiana University-Purdue University at Fort Wayne Walb Memorial Union Ballroom Thursday, the thirteenth of December at three o'clock p.m.

Reception immediately following

THURSDAY 6

PIT presents: Jacques Brel, 8 p.m.
Film: The Threepenny Opera, Kettler 246, 7:30 p.m.
B.F. Goodrich Management Training Seminar, 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Walb 224.
Placement test, Walb ballroom, 5:30 p.m.
Indiana-Purdue Reports on WIPU, 3:45 p.m. Guest: Gary Blumenshine.
Interiversity Christian Fellowship, Walb lounge, 12:30 p.m.
Registration: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2:30 to 6:30 p.m., Kettler 108.

FRIDAY 7

Film: Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman, 7 and 10 p.m., Walb.
Men's Basketball vs. Marian at home, 7:30 p.m.
PIT presents: Jacques Brel, 8 p.m.

SATURDAY 8

Men's Basketball vs. Concordia, there, 7:30 p.m.
PIT presents: Jacques Brel, 8 p.m.
Tri-State band and choir concert, 8 p.m., Walb ballroom.
Placement test, Walb ballroom, 8:30 a.m.
Film: Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman, 7 and 10 p.m., Walb.
Indiana-Purdue Reports on WGL radio, 7:35 a.m.
Guest: Gary Blumenshine.

SUNDAY 9

Indiana-Purdue Reports on WANE TV, Ch. 15 at 6:30 a.m. and on Citizens Cable at 5 p.m. Guest: Gary Blumenshine.
University-Community Symphony Orchestra concert, 8 p.m., Neff 101.

MONDAY 10

Interiversity Christian Fellowship, Neff 147, noon.
Women's Studies: "Sexism At IPFW," Walb 116, noon

TUESDAY 11

No Events Scheduled

WEDNESDAY 12

Annual Christmas Dinner, Club Olympia, 6:30 p.m.

THURSDAY 13

Building "D" Groundbreaking, 3 p.m., Walb ballroom, lounge.
PIT presents: Jacques Brel, 8 p.m.
B.F. Goodrich Management Training Seminar, 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Walb 224.

Campus Calendar is sponsored by Indiana University-Purdue University at Fort Wayne for the use of all university departments and organizations. Items to be included in the Campus Calendar must be submitted to the Office of University Relations, 801 State, Kettler Hall by 3 p.m. on the Thursday preceding the week of publication.

3413 NORTH ANTHONY

WE BRING YOU THE STARS ON ALBUM AND TAPE

PEACHES AND HERB
"TWICE THE FIRE"

"QUADROPHENIA"
SOUNDTRACK

ARS
"ARE YOU READY?"

POLYDOR RECORDS AND KARMA
OFFER YOU THE BEST IN MUSIC

GET THE MOST ENTERTAINMENT
FOR YOUR MONEY
WITH RECORDS & TAPES

Is a student safe campus after dark?

According to chief university police and staff Maurice Shady, there have been only one reported lack in the past three years. In that single incident 1973, a woman was accosted by an unidentified man on Kettler Hall staircase.

To prevent the possibility of similar incidents on campus, university police and safety provide an escort service in the evening hours. Students desiring to be escorted to their cars should call the police or safety department. In five to 10 minutes, an officer, armed plant employee

A staff reporter observed dim-lit, dark campus areas during a recent late-night tour. These areas where an escort might be required are marked with shaded areas on the accompanying diagram.

(An artist's conception of the IPFW campus (at left), indicates with shaded areas the parking lots, metered sections, and walkways which are dimly lit after dark. As winter draws closer and the sun sets earlier each day, students attending evening classes may feel safer with a university police and safety escort. If so, students are encouraged to call Police and Safety on campus for an escort.)

By KIM MARTIN
Hartford, Conn.

Two basic concepts,

Another problem faced by many women, she continued, is the label of victim placed on women who have been raped by the trauma of rape. The media seems to emphasize the helplessness of these women, she said, and never refers to them by any other title but "victim."

In working with these women, she said, she is struck by their strength. They are rape "survivors," not victims.

Boxley described self-defense as more than a physical response. It's an awareness, and brings knowledge, she said.

Before, she explained self-defense tips, usually from the police, seemed to reinforce the belief that there's nothing women can do besides "relax and enjoy" it. The police advocated submitting, taking your way out of it, and martial arts — but only if you're some sort of "Black-Belt," she said.

Women are brought up to believe they can't hurt men, and the continued, and then men are so much bigger and stronger, they're in a vulnerable. Men are human too, she said, and they can be hurt like anyone else.

It was simple, easily-learned technique, she added. The objective isn't to subdue the attacker, it's to surprise him so you can escape.

Unfortunately, she concluded, women need to know how to defend themselves. They also need to take such measures as checking the back seat of their cars and keeping doors locked to avoid dangerous situations.

Many women, however, problems making authorities accept the fact that they've been abused. DeWeese explained. For example, she cited the case of a black woman who couldn't get the police to respond to her calls when an alcoholic ex-husband raped her.

Finally, the woman had to have a friend call the police for her. Black women especially have problems convincing the police they need something done to stop such attacks, she admitted.

Some prosecutors seem to feel that women do something to deserve what they get. If they do believe the woman, DeWeese said, they will prosecute the case.

Some women have even accepted an attitude of passivity or "learned helplessness," she concluded, and many times they've given up.

The fear of rape exists in some degree in all women, Parks explained. It's only recently that they have begun to recognize this fear and deal with it.

December 1-3 is Rape Awareness Week, sponsored by the Rape Crisis Center. Eldred concluded the program by adding that a rape awareness convention program is in the planning stage for many of the state's high schools.

BY KARL JAY SMITH

for 10 of 13 Indiana cases and 11 of 12 Purdue cases. Kenworthy added, "This is only a recommendation to the chancellor. Nothing is final until after the respective board of trustees considers the case."

The Purdue board of trustees will consider cases on March 14, 1980. Indiana's board of trustees will consider them on April 4, 1980.

The process for tenure approval differs for Indiana and Purdue Universities, however each follows a general procedure.

After the case report is submitted to the department chairperson by the faculty member, it progresses to the division head, who in turn

After an initial recommendation concerning the applicant's acceptability for promotion or tenure, the dialogue-reply to Fr. Larry Kramer's article entitled, "Foreign Policy is to Blame."

report is sent to the vice chancellor, then the chancellor, then the respective president of the university, and finally to the deciding from all reports will not live too much longer. He was allowed to come here for Every professor must submit a case report for tenure at the close of his sixth year. If tenure is from page

ntinued from page 10

deserves these basic rights. However, in Iran these basic human rights are being

2 political despot, was beloved by his people before the Reich fell, and just a year ades of reply to Fr. Larry Krazner's from all reports will not live deserves these basic rights.

Who then is the real villain of the crisis in Iran? The answer is, no person is the villain. The Ayatollah Khomeini was given one of the rarest opportunities ever given a man. As a religious leader who opposed the Shah and his oppressive regime, the Ayatollah was respected by more than just the people of Iran. The Ayatollah had the opportunity to lead his country from hate and injustice to an era of prosperity and peace.

—Reginald L. Hathorn

reply to Fr. Larry Kramer's article entitled, "Foreign Policy is to Blame," published Nov. 15, 1979.

Fr. Kramer, U.S. foreign policy is not the issue in the current U.S.-Iranian confrontation. This country and Iran are at odds with each other in regards to quite a different issue, namely basic human rights and human dignity.

In Iran, innocent U.S. citizens are being held captive, illegally, by a mob of Iranian students because from all reports will not live too much longer. He was allowed to come here for treatment, because our country has some of the best specialists in the area of oncology in the world. The U.S. could indeed be called "morally and spiritually bankrupt," if we had refused medical treatment to a dying man. Instead, this country is allowing humane treatment to be given the Shah, because no matter what his past sins may be, the Shah is a human being, and as such deserves to be treated with humaneness.

Also, Fr. Kramer, how can he state the statement "... the man (the Ayatollah) is too beloved to be a despot," if he stand up under rational, logical thinking processes?

political despot, was beloved by his people before the Reich fell, and just a year ago 900 devotees of religious despot, Jim Jones, went to their death for him. Isn't it strange that both Hitler and Jones were fanatics? The Ayatollah provides a refreshing blend of being both a religious and a political fanatic.

No, Fr. Kramer, it isn't U.S. foreign policy that created "... a real villain," it's intolerance of human rights, and in this case, the Iranians are denying Americans their just human rights.

To The Editor:
This letter is written in

EASY PARKING IN AND OUT
WE'VE GOT JEANS & TOPS FOR EVERYONE
 ALL DISCOUNTED PRICES
 THERE'S ONLY ONE, THE ORIGINAL GLENWAY
 BARGAIN CENTER

3620 Coldwater Rd.
 402.245.1000 Glenwaybrook Penney's

Open Evenings
 Sunday 12-9

When in Southern California visit UNIVERSAL STUDIOS TOUR
THE MGM COMPANIES

DAN AKROYD NEO BEATTY JOHN BELUSHI LORRAINE GARY MURRAY HAMILTON CHRISTOPHER LEE
 TIM MATHESON TOSHIO MIFUNE WARREN OATES ROBERT STACK TREAT WILLIAMS
 A New Line Production of "The Untouchables"

DANIEL KELLER BRUCE WILSON RICHARD DONOVAN DANIEL KELLER JIM PEACOCK JIM PEACOCK Director of Photography JOHN T. ROBERTS Art Supervisor BOB BELL Music Supervisor BOB BELL
 Story by ROBERT J. MARSHALL and GARY BARBER Screenplay by ROBERT J. MARSHALL and GARY BARBER Produced by JIM PEACOCK Directed by JOHN T. ROBERTS

COMING TO CHRISTMAS

COMING FOR CHRISTMAS

KOLONY LIQUORS

KIVIERA PLAZA

(St. Joe & St. Joe Cntr. Rds.)

Cutty Sark Scotch Wh.	$7.99
Bacardi Rum qts.	$5.10
Bellows Vodka 1.75 lt.	$6.99
Wolfschmidt Vodka 5th.	$3.99
Beer Sale, Hamm's Cans.	$5.99 case
Little King case N.R. bottles	$5.99
Olympia 12 cans	$3.20

YOU MUST BE 21
We reserve the right to limit quantity
Expires Dec. 15, 1979

Scales n' Tails

2332 NORTH CLINTON

ONE OF FORT WAYNE'S LARGEST SELECTIONS OF FRESHWATER FISH AND TROPICAL BIRDS

10% OFF ANY FISH

With This Coupon
Limit One Coupon Per Customer

483-4930

"OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK"

New Year's Eve Party & Dance at the Hayloft Music by "Destiny"

Price: $7.50 ACH
$9.00 All Others
Includes refreshments, sat ups, Hats & Horns. Breakfast will be served!
Doors open at 8:00 p.m.

MOVIE: Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman

Times: 7 and 10 p.m.
Place: Fri.—Neff 101; Sat.—Walsh Ballroom
Price: Free A.C.H.; $1.50 all others

DON'T MISS
SKI TRIP

Dec. 21 to Cannonsburg, Mich.

X-Mas Semi-Formal Dinner Dance

Dec. 15, 7 p.m. Marriott Inn

MORE
INFO
IN SWEET SHOPPE

Paraphernalia Palace

Incense • Jewelry • Gift Items • Smoking and Other Accessories

(319) 484-4731

Conducting in Euphoric Devices Since 1972.
Hours: Mon. thru Fri. 10 a.m. - 9 p.m. Sat. 12-5
1014 Coliseum Blvd. East Ft. Wayne, IN 46805

featuring.... Dancing Daily from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 a.m. Mon. thru Sat.

★ SANDWICHES

Exotic Shows Nightly
Mon. thru Sat.

★ TRY OUR CARRY-OUT

★ PIZZA

Special Celebration
Mon. thru Thurs. 5 pm - 6 pm

r-club

You must be 21 to enter. Open 11:00 am 1018 Coliseum Blvd. E. to 3:00 am

"Purveyors Of Fine Coffees & Teas"

Featuring Fine Imported Beers & Wines
Thursday Night Pitcher Night
$1 off each pitcher
Live music every Thursday, Friday and Saturday night
Thurs., Dec. 6 Gil Bierman
Fri., Dec. 7 Bill Ochoa
Sat., Dec. 8 Bill Storey

Hours: M-Th. 10 a.m.-12 Midnight
Fri.-Sat. 10 a.m.-1 a.m.
Sun. 7:30-12 Midnight

MOVIES at MIDNIGHT
NORTHWOOD
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
ONLY—ALL SEATS $2.50
"ROCKY HORROR
PICTURE SHOW" (R)

ENTERTAINMENT GIFT BOOKS on Sale NOW!

GENERAL CINEMA THEATRES
STANDARD • LATELY • $3.00 DOLBY MATINEE SHOWING ONLY

GLENBROOK CTR.
U.S. 37 AND U.S. 50 HIGHWAY
A True Story.

THE ONION FIELD
2:00 • 4:35 • 7:15 • 9:45 (R)

MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN
1:30 • 3:30 • 5:30 • 7:30 • 9:30 (R)

MEMPHIS AT MIDNIGHT
A TRUE STORY
3:05 • 7:00 (Late Complete Show at 7:20)
1:45 • 5:30 • 9:15 (R)

SOUTHTOWN MALL
1337 SOUTH MAIN
JOHN SHATTNER • LEONARD NIMOY
STAR TREK
Fri & Sat. 12 noon • 2:30 • 5:00 • 7:15 • 9:45 • 12 noon
Sun. 12 noon • 2:30 • 5:00 • 7:15 • 9:45 (G)

UFO'S ARE REAL
1:30 • 3:30 • 5:30 • 7:30 • 9:30 (G)

for adults who can count...
2:00 • 4:30 • 7:15 • 9:45 (R)

NORTHWOOD
1337 SOUTH MAIN
JOHN SHATTNER • LEONARD NIMOY
ANIMAL HOUSE
Sat & Sun. 7:30 • 9:45 • 12 noon • 2:30 • 5:00
Fri & Sat. 8:45 • 9:30 • 10:00 (R)
a tradition returns
Friday the 13th
1:45 • 4:45 • 8:00 (G)

REDWOOD INN GRINDERS

SAUSAGE ROLLS THE INCREDIBLE MEATBALL SANDWICH

YOU MUST BE 21-IF YOU'RE NOT,
TRY OUR FOOD CARRYOUT SERVICE

Live Rock Music Returns to Ft. Wayne!
Dallas's Junction
In the Gerber Haus,
Clinton at the By-Pass
Dec. 4-8...Strut
Dec. 11-15...Jax
HAPPY HOUR--
7 to 9:30
Tues.-Thurs.
ALL drinks 1/2 price
Open Tuesday through Saturday

Fort Wayne Film Guide

HOLIDAY AT NORTHCREST

"NOW SHOWING"

STAR TREK

THE MOTION PICTURE (G)

HELO FRANCIS FORD
OVER COPPOLA'S

Apocalypse Now
Unrated Artists

GEORGETOWN 6300 EAST STATE
749-4061

•NOW• WALT DISNEY'S
101 DALMATIANS (G)

HELD A comedy for adults "10"
OVER! who can count. (R)

QUIMBY VILLAGE 1808 BLUFFTON RD.
747-9912

•NOW• WALT DISNEY'S
101 DALMATIANS (G)

ADULT ENTERTAINMENT

"How Funny Can Sex Be?"

RATED R

GATEWAY 2735 GOSHEN RD.
483-3443

HELD NATIONAL LAMPOON'S
OVER! ANIMAL HOUSE (R)

HELD "UFO'S Are Real"
OVER! (G)

ADULT ENTERTAINMENT

"How Funny Can Sex Be?"

RATED R

CINEMA 27 HANNA & U.S. 27 S.
447-4032

2 CONWAY HITS

•NOW• THE BLUEBELLS (G) H 80 (G)

YOU MUST BE 21-IF YOU'RE NOT,
TRY OUR FOOD CARRYOUT SERVICE

Woody Allen would be proud

By MIKE GIFFEN

I must confess that I am a rabid Woody Allen fan. I have seen each of his films many times, and think he is one of the few true comic geniuses working in film today. I eagerly look forward to anything bearing Allen's mark and was with trepidation that I attended Arena Theatre's production of "Play It Again, Sam" Saturday night. I wondered how his comedy would hold up after all these years.

It's happy to report that Allen's production has done better than I expected.

"Play It Again, Sam" was Allen's first big success on Broadway, and it contains the throwaway lines and self-deprecating humor that have since become Allen's trademarks. Like all of Allen's earlier efforts, the plot of "SAM" is simple. It deals with Alan Felix, who is gone through the trauma of a divorce, and wondering how he can succeed as a man. In desperation, his imagination brings him the fantasy of being married to his ex-wife, and he is surprised to find that it is possible, and the cast brings them all out.

Another Allen trademark is realistic characters who are appealing because of this reality. Their careers are realistic. The cast successfully brings out these human qualities in Allen's play. Will Travis, as Alan Felix, is simply superb. His timing is excellent and he has a nicely subdued quality that makes his character's pain of nervous and insecurity. Travis' physical delivery is amusing as he keeps and trips all over the set in Allen's best comic tradition. Rick Boush, as Bogart, is also very good. It is Douglas' credit that he brings the play to life. Douglass' role as Frank Gelsinger, by giving an outlandish performance, brings a touch of reality to the play.

John Sullivan, as Linda, is wonderful. At first, Sullivan seemed rather dull, but as the play progresses, he warmed to her character and made Linda believable. He made her more than the girl next door, and gave her a pleasant personality that made her scenes with Felix work.

The director, James Schmidt, has a real gift for timing and never lets the action overtake the actors.

A good example of Schmidt's timing is the scene where Felix is teaching Linda how to dance in the limo. This scene is a classic bit of comedy, and with Allen's sense of the humor, it is a perfect example of the director's skill.

Arena's production reminded me of good old theatre. It was a pleasure to see a play that was so well done, and it was a pleasure to see people who are so dedicated to their art.

comedy, just right to make you laugh on a cold winter night.

"Play It Again, Sam" is a comedy written by a master, and it would like this production. Go see it.

TONY WATSON MOVIES

Starline News Service-National Cable's next album, due in November, will be a duet with Pablo Picasso titled "We're the Best of Friends."

Will Travis as Alan Felix in Arena Theatre's production of "Play It Again, Sam." (Photo courtesy of Arena Theatre.)

At PIT Jacques lives

By STEVE RIFEGL
Any attempt to describe what is at the heart of the pit is almost beside the point. The important thing to know is that the pit is a place where the best of the best come to play. It is a place where the best of the best come to play. It is a place where the best of the best come to play.

entire company seemed infatuated with Brel's mastery. That mastery was as apparent in the movement as it was in the singing. Larry Lyle's choreography embodied the spirit of Brel, and the Ensemble made it live. The dance numbers were sometimes funny, ironic, or shocking, but they were pushed directly to the trust and most basic human constitution, and never failed to demand a strong emotional response. "Timid Friede," "Middle Class," "Friede," and "Cereus" were especially good.

The set and costumes, designed by Stuart and Pauli Sless, were clearly simple and elegant. The set was a nice touch to place the orchestra, which performed flawlessly, behind a glass so that they were visually, as well as acoustically, an integral part of the show.

No review can express the power of this show. The most that can be done is to let everyone, for their own sake, to go see it. Like all great art, this show reflects the essence of the human situation and should arouse the sympathies of all who experience it.

Gismonti deep, unique

By STEVE SPRINGER
The Brazilian composer, breathtakingly beautiful and superb craftsmanship of "Solo," the latest release by Brazilian guitarist-pianist Egberto Gismonti, makes it this critic's choice for "finest solo album of the year."

Gismonti, in the same way that saw the release of Keith Jarrett's "Solo for Cereus," and Pat Metheny's "New Chautauque," was not a hasty conclusion.

Gismonti's "Solo" goes beyond classical, jazz, popular, and Latin music forms, to create a truly unique synthesis which demonstrates the total integration of music, music, and instrumentation.

Gismonti was born in 1937 in Gorno, Brazil. At the age of six, he began his formal music studies on the piano. After 15 years of classical music training in Brazil, he went on to Paris where he received further instruction from Nadia Boulanger and Jean Barraque, a disciple of Schoenberg and Webern. Returning to Brazil, he began to integrate the ideas of orchestration and chord voicings of Bartok and Gershwin with improvisation-based music. Growing intensely attracted to Brazilian forms of music, such as the "choro," he made the transition from piano to guitar. His major influences became Baden Powell, Joao Montenegro, and Django Reinhardt.

For five years, Gismonti studied in the Amazon region where he lived with the Xingu Indians, and he developed his personal philosophies and musical vision from their teachings. He described them in his second album, "Solo De Mito Dia," which is dedicated to the Xingu. According to Gismonti, "This culture is based on music and industry and war like this," holding his hands open. "But the Indians are like this," bringing his hands together. "They are harmonious with themselves and their environment and it is the energy that is my trade."

Gismonti's earlier record, "Phases Dan Cabaret," was Stereo Review's "Record of the Year," and was awarded "Best Recording in International Popular Music" by the Grammys. Photographers

November of 1978 and released in September of 1979, featuring Gismonti on piano, featuring guitar, bells and voice. This is his first album to date.

"The idea of flow was

Ballet lacks emotion

By SUSAN HORNE

Becoming an excellent dancer requires not only innate ability, refined grace and sheer fortitude, but also an abundance of warmth and vulnerability that projects from the dancer's soul to the heart of the audience. Aside from the professional artists in last week's opening night performance of "The Nutcracker," there were approximately a half-dozen other all-around excellent dancers.

"The Nutcracker," which aired its way onto the stage of the Fort Wayne Opera Center last Friday night, was a most interesting production by the Fort Wayne Ballet Company, but remarkably pale in its

one. The 15-member company, along with two guest artists, Pamela Davidson, as the Sugar Plum Fairy, and Jean Michel Lazzarini, as the Nutcracker Cavalier, were right on target. However, the production needed a stronger story line, greater emotional involvement, and a physical platform. The unimpressive Clara (Linda Fuchs) led through a young girl's dream, but she was unimpaired, by Nutcracker, a Christmas tale from her father.

This ballet is a conglomeration of physical platform. The unimpressive Clara (Linda Fuchs) led through a young girl's dream, but she was unimpaired, by Nutcracker, a Christmas tale from her father.

Another curious addition to this late ensemble was Bubble Popper, a strikingly beautiful blonde, who performed close to seven feet on points, grasp your attention from the music she took on the stage. The two guest artists were impressive, just as they were supposed to be. But more importantly, the dancers who aren't leaping the lead roles for New York, but for the Fort Wayne Ballet Company, need to be full of life. They need to be full of life. They need to be full of life.

They need to be full of life. They need to be full of life. They need to be full of life. They need to be full of life. They need to be full of life.

arts at a glance

Cinematic projections. The SBCUC film series concludes the 1989 season with John Kury's "The Autobiography of Alice Walker." The film will be shown on Dec. 8 and 9. The 7:30 hour film is $10. The film will be shown on Dec. 8 and 9. The 7:30 hour film is $10. The film will be shown on Dec. 8 and 9. The 7:30 hour film is $10.

The social whirl. SUBURG will hold a semi-formal Christmas dinner dance on Dec. 15 at the Marriott Inn. Music will be provided by the Fort Wayne Symphony Orchestra. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children.

Reading the boards. The PIT production of "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" continues this weekend. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children. Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for children.

Concerts of note. The IFW Division of Music is sponsoring two concerts this weekend. On Dec. 8 and 9, the 7:30 hour film is $10. The film will be shown on Dec. 8 and 9. The 7:30 hour film is $10.

Artistic hangups. An exhibition of original graphic art will be held Dec. 10 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The exhibition is sponsored by the Department of Fine Arts and can be viewed at the School of Art and Design. An exhibition and sale of pottery and sculpture by Ken Pearson and Susan Shepherd will be held Dec. 10 at the Art School. The proceeds of the sale will go to benefit the school's city department.

THE COST OF GETTING SICK IS ENOUGH TO MAKE YOU SICK.

Any major health problem could easily be managed with the right insurance. You need a plan that covers you and your family. You need a plan that covers you and your family. You need a plan that covers you and your family.

Call Ray Reddell 485-7525 8720 St. Joe Rd. (Across the intersection of Genesee)

NATIONWIDE INSURANCE. We have the best rates and the best service. We have the best rates and the best service. We have the best rates and the best service.

Koerber & Baber

Ray Koerber & Baber, 365 Chestnut Street, Suite 100, Columbus St. / Southtown Mall. Koerber & Baber, 365 Chestnut Street, Suite 100, Columbus St. / Southtown Mall. Koerber & Baber, 365 Chestnut Street, Suite 100, Columbus St. / Southtown Mall.

RAMADA INN HAS 3 UNIQUE WAYS TO HERALD IN THE NEW YEAR!

Diamond rings to make any New Year's Eve. All 14 Karat yellow gold. A $195 to $295. C $165.

*You can DISCO THE NEW YEAR IN MINGLES and feast on a mid night buffet. You can get a great ROMANTIC DINNER at SUMMERFEST. If you're too tired to go home or can't see it, then, Ramada Inn offers a special over-night package with a complimentary Continental breakfast.

MAKE YOUR RESERVATIONS EARLY! RAMADA INN 169 and Ind 14

'Thurber Carnival' Fables pass test

By STEVE RIEGEL
There was a carnival, complete with balloons, at IPFW this week.
But this was not an ordinary carnival. It was a "Thurber Carnival," an annual group performance of four tables and two short stories written by James Thurber. The Interpretive Theatre production was organized by Toni Benetti, Karen Geels, and Leanne Thompson, under the guidance of faculty advisor Janet Biancelli.
"Thurber Carnival" evolved out of a special project in Communications 558, in which Benetti, Geels, and Thompson explored interpreters' theatrical theory. They were required to use what they learned in a performance of a literary work, and they chose Thurber.

Joey Ramsey and Phil Darling in Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miller in the Interlopers Theatre production, "Thunder Carnival." (Photo by Craig Baumgartner.)

at first, but this problem was soon corrected. The music was nice, but since it was coming from another room, it had a rather oblique effect. In retrospect, the lighting seemed to be vaguely connected with the action, but only in an amateurish, experimental way.

However, the characters were quite good. They made the stories come alive. Overall, I would give the production a B-plus.

HEWLETT- PACKARD

Doubleday Bros. & Co. are now carrying Hewlett-Packard calculators and calculator accessories.

HP 31E List $50.00 Our Price $46.00

HP 31E — Scientific trigonometric, exponential and math functions. Metric conversion. Fixed and scientific display modes.

HP 38E — Advanced Financial with Programmability. Solves routine and sophisticated problems at the touch of a key.

HP
38E

HP 338

HP 33E — Programmable scientific — science, math and statistical functions
49 program lines of full merged program memo

HEWLETT, N. PACKARD

List $90 Our Price $82⁸⁰

OPEN WEEKDAYS 8 TO 5:30
SATURDAYS UNTIL 12:30

DOUBLEDAY BROS & CO

YOUR BETTER

VALUE
OFFICE SUPPLY STORE

The Human Adventure
Is Just Beginning

GENERAL CINEMA 5
SOUTHTOWN MALL
CINEMA 4

MIDNIGHT SHOWS
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
Fri. & Sat.: 12 noon -
2:30 - 4:50 - 7:15 - 9:40
12 Mid.
SUN.-THUR.: 12 noon -
2:30 - 4:50 - 7:15 - 9:40

484.2223
HOLIDAY
AT NORTHCREST

FRIDAY- 7:30 & 10:00
SAT. & SUN: 1:30 - 4:00
- 7:30 - 10:00
MON.-FRI: 7:30
& 10:00

STAR TREK

NO PASSES
NO
BARGAIN MATS.

[illegible]

XMAS GOLD RUSH

Where you can save

40%

on chains, charms,
and ingots from our two store inventory of $300,000

worth of 14 Kt. Italian gold for

3 days only

December 7th, 8th, and 9th

The Christmas Place
JCPenney

Southtown
447-1532
Catalog: 447-3541

Glenbrook
482-4661
Catalog: 482-4661

Special Friday hours: 9-10

EMS, from page one

(Continued from page 1) In their contract, a clause provided that for every day he worked on a holiday, even a regularly scheduled day off, a medic would receive two days off later. But because of the personnel in the department, which caused a continuous manpower shortage, it was impossible to schedule these days off without drastically cutting service. It amounted to many medics working hours of overtime for free. Raypole disclosed that medics had accumulated more than 900 days of such make-up time. After the "flu" epidemic, the EMS staff reached an agreement with the city manager in which medics would accept bonus pay in lieu of days off owed them. But in many medics, the pay is not as important as the recognition from the public and city officials, which they feel is long overdue for them. "Remember the big fire here this year at Three Rivers Apartments?" asked one EMT. "Here we are, pulling people out of this burning building, working right alongside police and firemen. But when it comes time for recognition and commendation, everybody except us gets their pat on the back from the mayor. Where are we? Why, we're back out on the streets battling our bugs to make sure it doesn't happen again."

Gary Dasek, a veteran of one-and-a-half years with EMS, recalled a time when people were trapped in vehicles where looking headless made evisceration or fire imminent.

"It gets hairy sometimes when we're providing life support right inside the car to the victim, knowing that at any time the two of you could go up in flames," Dasek shrugged. "Those are the kinds of risks you take."

But the risks, and lack of recognition, have not dulled the zeal of Dasek and his brother medics. They want to improve themselves and the service for the public. Dasek is one of several medics who have added to their training by taking a 20-hour course in advanced life support training. "Hopefully, in the future all our people will take this course," Raypole said. "That means they will be qualified to give more advanced life support to victims at the scene."

Raypole added that the two new ambulances recently purchased are equipped for advanced life support care. This would provide improved care in the case of cardiac arrests, particularly. In 1977, EMS made 140 runs to aid such victims, yet only 15 of those people are still alive. The record could be improved with advanced methods, Raypole believes.

But the advanced life support service is only one improvement in EMS, one planned for the future. It has been revealed recently that the city administration is interested in extending operations to include the entire county—with the county's participation, of course. Raypole said that this expansion might improve service to city residents.

The bulk of poor people are in the city, he said. They are the ones that need the service most. One city official who wanted to reach uninsured, felt that the city might have to begin charging a fee for ambulance service.

"With rising costs, I don't see how we can continue without receiving direct monetary assistance from those who actually use the service," he said. It could be one solution, and might help pay for the new vans and service needs as well. But it may be difficult to explain that to Fort Wayne's poor.

Think Gold

think american

Free 18 kt. gold electroplate chains yours free with a $250 deposit or more to any use or existing savings account. Fitness, dress, fashion choice to choose from — only from American Federal. One gold chain per person, per deposit of $250 or more between now and December 15, 1978 while supply lasts.

american federal savings & loan

Ground breaking set

By KARL JAY SMITH
The long-awaited day of ground breaking for building D will be Thursday, Dec. 13. The indoor ground breaking ceremonies will be held in the Walsh Memorial Union ballroom at 3 p.m. All students are invited.

The schedule follows:
—The IFW Community Symphony Orchestra, 5:30 p.m.
—Chancellor Gustaf and other speakers, 5:30-6 p.m.
—The reception in the Union building's Pirelli Lounge, 6:30-8 p.m.
—Ground breaking at the building site, 8 p.m.
The speakers following

Gustaf are John Ryan, president of Indiana University; Arthur Ransen, president of Purdue University; Robert Armstrong, mayor of Fort Wayne; Raymond Pigert, speaker of Purdue faculty senate; Richard Wall, secretary of Indiana faculty senate and Kathy Zupka, IFW student body president.

WHILE U WAIT!

PRINTING

While-U-Wait!

10 to 10,000 COPIES
Have a Copy of Culture on Us
— $2.00 for Your Fourth Year (No Fee for First)

PHOTOCOPIES
as low as 6¢ ea.
in volume sell service
483-7144

821 Callesum Blvd. W. near 10th St. (at 10th St.)

pip

pip

WHILE U WAIT!

Renters: What can you lose?

Maybe everything you own — because of loss both yours and the owner's.

Call me today. I'd like to tell you about Renters' special. American Renters' Policy.

Carl Ray Pedillo
483-7332
5720 St. Joe Rd.
(Across from the Markings of Canterbury)

NATIONWIDE INSURANCE

Special Agent in Charge

I tried everything.. Sulfuric Acid, Nitro, TNT...

But nothing worked, until I heard about

The Hair Center and ROFFLER PRODUCTS

BEFORE

AFTER

If the Hair Center and ROFFLER products could do this for him, think of what we could do for you!

10% Discount on all Roffler products until Jan. 1, 1980

THE Hair Center

BARBER & BEAUTY SHOP

One Block North of McMillen Park at 3402 Wayne Trace. Phone 745-0531

Slatewood's

"Sounds of Christmas"

ELO's GREATEST HITS

8.98 list
$6.95

AEROSMITH NIGHT IN THE RUTS

8.98 list
$5.89

Toto Africa

8.98 list
$5.89

WILLIE NELSON PRETTY PAPER

7.98 list
$4.89

Jimmy Messina OWN

7.98 list
$4.89

SANTANA MARATHON

8.98 list
$5.89

STEVE FORBERT JACK RABBIT SLIM

7.98 list
$5.95

On CBS Records and Tapes

Stop in for details and to register for Slatewood's "Sounds of Christmas" drawing on December 21st.

3627 N. Clinton Ft. Wayne 483-9290

Cagers get first win

Nip Bible, 73-71

By GARY BAUMGARTNER
"We're improving with every game." That's how basketball coach Ken Workman summed up his feelings about the young Tukes. The cagers captured their first win of the year on the weekend as they defeated Bible College 73-71 in the consolation round of the 1979 Sertoma Tip-Off Tournament at Concordia College gym.

On Friday night, the Tukes went up against a talented St. Francis squad in the opening round of the tourney. Once the importance of the IPPW team doubled their defeat, as they committed 27 errors in the game, that which were bad passes.

There were improvements

the week before, however

Frederick guard Ty Causey led all scorers as he pumped

SPECIAL NEW MEMBERSHIP OFFER

FREE RACQUET

OFFER GOOD THROUGH SATURDAY, DECEMBER 29TH 1979

COME PLAY IN OUR WORLD OF TENNIS AND GET A FREE RACQUET!

Fort Wayne
1001 N. 10th St.
Fort Wayne, IN 46802
(219) 482-1871

1 Year Student Membership $35.00

Sports Illustrated Court Clubs

LIMITED OFFER

When in Southern California call 1-800-555-5555

The JERK

UNIVERSAL PICTURES PRESENTS
AN ASPEN FILM SOCIETY WILLIAM W. WICKER
DAVID P. PICKER PRODUCTION
A CARL REINER FILM

STEVE MARTIN

The JERK

with BERNADETTE PETERS, CATLIN ADAMS, JACKIE MASON
STEVE MARTIN, CARL GOTTLIEB, MICHAEL ELIAS, STEVE MARTIN & CARL GOTTLIEB
DAVID P. PICKER, WILLIAM E. McKEE, CAPT. REINER

Coming For Christmas.

...in brief

Pizza Hut Challenge

Three lucky fans at each home game of the Tukes men's basketball games will have a chance to win free pizza from Pizza Hut of Canterbury, according to the manager.

The "Basketball Fan Pizza Hut Challenge" will be held during the halftime break of all Tukes home games. Upon entering the gym, each fan will be given a numbered ticket. At halftime, three numbers will be drawn. The holders of the lucky numbers will then be able to utilize their ticket in shooting a basketball to win free pizza. Each person will have three attempts to win. The first attempt one free small pizza from Pizza Hut of Canterbury. The second attempt will be from the top of the foul circle and will be worth one medium pizza for the accurate shooter. The third attempt will be from the corner circle and a bucket from here will reward the lucky person with a large pizza from Pizza Hut.

On Saturday afternoon, pizza loving fans have another incentive to attend the men's home basketball games. In addition to an evening of exciting basketball, you can win free pizza.

Intramural V-ball notes

The intramural volleyball season came to an end this week on several teams battled to finish in first place going into the tournament. A blowout tie resulted as the Unknowns, the Grubly Club A team and the Mucky Mucks ended with 2 records. Two bases for breaking ties were required, according to intramural director Ralfe Clements. First, the team with the fewest forfeits was given higher ranking. If two were tied, the record against other tied teams was used.

The tournament promise to be interesting, according to Clements. The Unknowns finished in first place and will meet the Soccer Nats. Other action in the tournament is to be held Monday at the Concordia gym, pits the Steve Miller Band against You Bet Your Bytes, the Grubly Club A team battles Brian, and the Mucky Mucks will meet the Squares.

Tournament play begins at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, with the semi-final and final game to be held on Wednesday night.

CLASSIFIEDS

WHOWEER RIPPED OFF TERM
my notebook from the Student Union restroom on Nov. 20th, please return to Safety and Security.

QUESTIONS ASKED.

WANTED: USED GUITAR AMP — Will consider old fender tube type even if not in working order. 748-8418 or 485-8016. Ask for Ken.

THE MUSIC EDUCATORS ASSOCIATION (MENC) 151-P.U. Fort Wayne student chapter number 748 wishes to express its appreciation to the community for their efforts in approving our constitution. We dedicate 1980. Special thanks to Senator Blaine Ryan for his interest and support.

FOR SALE: 1971 HONDA CR350R Runa great, dependable, 42 MPH. Asking $800. Call Steve at 488-5845 days, or 432-2773 nights and mornings.

WOULD YOU WOULD stole a camera out of a light blue van please return the film to the athletic office. NO QUESTIONS ASKED. Address is 10PU Athletic Office, Rm. 210 Wash. Union, 1200 Colliseum Blvd East, Ft. Wayne, IN 46805.

Frederick guard Ty Causey shoots for two more points in the Tukes' 73-71 loss to the St. Francis Cagers during last weekend's Sertoma Tip-Off Tourney. Causey scored 21 points against the Cagers and 21 points the next day against Bible College and was named to the All-Tourney team. Number 34 is Bob Ross. (Photo by Sarah Mensch.)

Tucker guard Kim Helmaux eyes the basket as she prepares to take a free throw in the women's Sertoma tourney loss to St. Francis. Sertoma Tip-Off Tourney game, along with Anne McClellan, was named to the women's All-Tourney team. (Photo by Craig Baumgartner.)

Women cagers debut

Split pair in Sertoma

By KATHERINE KRZYMSKI
The women's basketball squad gained third place over the weekend in the Sertoma Tip-Off Tourney, but it was just too big of a deficit to overcome.

Kim Helmaux and Karen Orlickson were high scorers with eight each and Anne McClellan shot for six points.

The Bible College rout was a different story. "We played an exceptionally good game. Whenever a team can score over 100 points, it's doing 30 right. We needed this game to build our confidence," commented Helmaux.

Ann Klopferstein was tops with 25 points and Anne McClellan netted 20.

Regular season action begins this week with the Tukes traveling to Goshen to play in the Goshen Classic. Friday at 6, they are up against Goshen, and Saturday at 2:30 they will meet St. Mary's.

SNOW POWER!

Drive with peace of mind this winter. Drive on the tough traction tires from Cooper. Especially designed for traction in snow, ice, and mud. These tires dig deep to power you through winter driving conditions.

WEATHER-MASTER Regular Snow Tires

RADIAL SNOW TIRES

SIZE	PRICE	P.T.Y.
13x13	24.95	1.89
14x13	24.95	1.89
15x13	24.95	1.89
16x13	24.95	1.89
17x13	24.95	1.89
18x13	24.95	1.89
19x13	24.95	1.89
20x13	24.95	1.89
21x13	24.95	1.89
22x13	24.95	1.89
23x13	24.95	1.89
24x13	24.95	1.89
25x13	24.95	1.89
26x13	24.95	1.89
27x13	24.95	1.89
28x13	24.95	1.89
29x13	24.95	1.89
30x13	24.95	1.89
31x13	24.95	1.89
32x13	24.95	1.89
33x13	24.95	1.89
34x13	24.95	1.89
35x13	24.95	1.89
36x13	24.95	1.89
37x13	24.95	1.89
38x13	24.95	1.89
39x13	24.95	1.89
40x13	24.95	1.89
41x13	24.95	1.89
42x13	24.95	1.89
43x13	24.95	1.89
44x13	24.95	1.89
45x13	24.95	1.89
46x13	24.95	1.89
47x13	24.95	1.89
48x13	24.95	1.89
49x13	24.95	1.89
50x13	24.95	1.89
51x13	24.95	1.89
52x13	24.95	1.89
53x13	24.95	1.89
54x13	24.95	1.89
55x13	24.95	1.89
56x13	24.95	1.89
57x13	24.95	1.89
58x13	24.95	1.89
59x13	24.95	1.89
60x13	24.95	1.89
61x13	24.95	1.89
62x13	24.95	1.89
63x13	24.95	1.89
64x13	24.95	1.89
65x13	24.95	1.89
66x13	24.95	1.89
67x13	24.95	1.89
68x13	24.95	1.89
69x13	24.95	1.89
70x13	24.95	1.89
71x13	24.95	1.89
72x13	24.95	1.89
73x13	24.95	1.89
74x13	24.95	1.89
75x13	24.95	1.89
76x13	24.95	1.89
77x13	24.95	1.89
78x13	24.95	1.89
79x13	24.95	1.89
80x13	24.95	1.89
81x13	24.95	1.89
82x13	24.95	1.89
83x13	24.95	1.89
84x13	24.95	1.89
85x13	24.95	1.89
86x13	24.95	1.89
87x13	24.95	1.89
88x13	24.95	1.89
89x13	24.95	1.89
90x13	24.95	1.89
91x13	24.95	1.89
92x13	24.95	1.89
93x13	24.95	1.89
94x13	24.95	1.89
95x13	24.95	1.89
96x13	24.95	1.89
97x13	24.95	1.89
98x13	24.95	1.89
99x13	24.95	1.89
100x13	24.95	1.89

WEATHER-MASTER Regular Snow Tires

RADIAL SNOW TIRES

WHALE TIRE WAREHOUSE

30% DISCOUNT

SAVE ODDS & ENDS Regular Retail & Retail Tire 15% OFF COST

ON ALL SUPERIOR WHISKEYS

2 CONVENIENT CASH & CARRY LOCATIONS

Open Only 8 to 6
NORTH: Colwater & the By-pass 484-9242
SOUTH: Southgate Plaza 745-9745